Principal's MESSAGE

Dear SKV fraternity,

As we bid farewell to another incredible year, I reflect on the abundance of experiences, achievements, and memories we've shared. It's been a year of growth, learning, and triumphs.

It always seems impossible until it's done. Well, this year we proved 'impossible' is just a word. We triumphed in so many initiatives that we undertook: including The Ivy League.

I'm grateful for the dedication of our faculty, the resilience of our students, and the unwavering support of our parents. Let's cherish the moments we've shared and look forward to the new opportunities ahead.

Wishing you a Christmas filled with laughter, love, and cherished memories and a happy, healthy New Year!

EDITORIAL

As we draw the curtains on 2025, we are invited to pause and reflect on the journey we have undertaken throughout the year. With the spirit of Christmas in the air and the promise of a new year ahead, December feels like a warm homecoming—a time filled with positive energy, celebration, and thoughtful introspection.

As the season spreads its warmth and joy, it reminds us to keep the flame of kindness and compassion alive within our hearts. December arrives with hope, renewed faith, and the excitement of fresh beginnings. As we move closer to the new year, we carry forward new perspectives and renewed energy, while consciously leaving behind negativity and self-doubt.

May this season inspire us to celebrate our journey so far and welcome the year ahead with optimism, gratitude, and hope.

ADD TO CART: HOW ONLINE SHOPPING IS CHANGING WHAT WE BUY

Everyone has shopped online, right? But have you ever stopped to think about how many times you actually used the things you bought—or whether you even tried them once?

Online shopping feels like a never-ending web that is hard to escape. It pulls us in like a magnet, making us spend more and more of our hard-earned money. Shopping websites use celebrities to pose with products, and this attracts buyers from all over the world.

It has changed what we shop for and when we shop. Earlier, people bought things only during important occasions or when they really needed them. Now, we buy things just because there is a sale. Many of the items we order remain unused because we bought them for their low price, not because we needed them.

This trend also adds to the growing problem of waste. Many fashion items are made from materials like polymers that are not sustainable and harm the environment. When we keep buying unnecessary things, we add to this waste and support an industry that pollutes the Earth.

But can we blame only the producers? As consumers, we must also take responsibility. We should think carefully about what we need before buying anything. Our choices should match our real requirements and our budget.

So, the next time you pick up your phone to open Amazon, Myntra, or Blinkit, try checking your wardrobe first. You may already have everything you need.
